Low Cost, High Return Adverts

£150 per online advert that will get your advert onto all the leading online job boards including:

- CV Library
- Indeed
- Reed
- Totaljobs

There are many different recruitment methods that can be used. Each method of course has its place and what works for one position won't always work for a different position.

Online advertising is a great example. If done correctly it will almost always provide you with a number of candidates to consider. They may not always be the top performers, but it will always give you a good cross section to consider at a fraction of the price compared to some other recruitment methods.

What are the Benefits?

Time            Simply email us a copy of the Job Specification or Job Advert, we will amend if required and then post onto the leading online job boards. Saving you significant time compared to having to approach each job board individually, agreed a price, pay and post your advert.

Money           Our cost of £150 per advert is significantly cheaper then if you were to go to each job board directly.

Organisation    All the responses come to us and each day we send you one single email with a zip file attached continuing the last 24hours worth of applications received.

Guarantee       If your advert doesn't deliver over 12 applications then you get your money back. No ifs No buts, straight back. Obviously we can't control the quality of applications, so if you are looking for a Pink Unicorn then this may not be quite the right recruitment method for you.

30 Days Payment Our standard payment terms are 30days so no need to pay upfront.
